Lee Disappointed By Action Sidetracking Rider Drying Up Army Camps

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 — A powerful movement for an amendment to the 18-19 draft bill prohibiting the sending of draftees under 20 into combat without a year's training confronted Senate leaders today after they had succeeded in shelving the Lee "dry" rider.

The proposal, advanced by Sen. John Thomas (R) Idaho, received backing of influential Senators despite the outspoken opposition of the War Department.

Republican Senate leaders Charles McNary announced that he will support the proposal, while Sen. Kenneth McKellar (D) Tennessee and Sen. George Norris (I) Nebraska both called for its adoption.

Sen. Burton (R) Ohio also hoped to win adoption of a proposal already approved by the House requiring deferment until the end of the academic year of students entering high school or colleges before December 31.

Dry Rider Shelved

With the "dry" rider amendment shelved, however, Senate leaders were hopeful that the bill can be passed by Saturday night in a form which will be acceptable to the House and be finally enacted next week.

Democratic Senate Leader Barkley engineered the strategy which resulted in the shelving of the amendment by Sen. Lee (D) Okla., prohibiting sale of liquor in and within a "reasonable" distance of Army camps.

The Senate, on Barkley's plea, voted to refer the Lee amendment to the Military Affairs committee with a request for hearings and a report "as soon as practicable." The vote was 49 to 25.

Lee voiced disappointment over the vote but said the issue is not dead.

HAL CHASE PAYS FINE FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

GARDENA, Cal., Oct. 23—Elmore Axel Chase sorrowfully reflected today that his former nationwide fame was of no avail when hailed into court on a drunken driving charge.

When Judge Frank H. Carrell asked him if he once was known as Hal Chase, the "peerless first baseman" of the New York Yankees, the defendant hopefully admitted he was. But the judge nevertheless fined him $100, declaring:

"Driving while under the influence of liquor is a worse offense than striking out with the bases loaded."

Judges Start Selection Of Prize Winning Stock

Judging was under way Friday in the 4-H club-vocational agriculture show with almost 300 boys and girls of Pickaway county handling their stock in competition with swine, cattle and sheep owned by their friends and neighbors. East Franklin street was the scene of much activity with youngsters of the various clubs competing for cash awards and handsome trophies being offered in many classes.

Capable judges were in charge of the competition, all being from out of the county, and all especially trained in their line of work.

During the afternoon and evening large crowds of persons are expected to tour the Kreisel building and other show rooms being used for exhibiting various projects.

The stock will remain in the buildings until Saturday afternoon.

The highlight of the show is scheduled at 8 o'clock Friday evening when all stock raised for market is put on sale in a big auction. Buyers from numerous outstanding packing houses are expected to participate in the bidding. Farm officials are expecting the boys and girls to receive good prices for their stock.

Thursday evening's features which opened the show were the banquet served to 4-H club boys and girls in the Presbyterian church where they were guests of several cooperating organizations, a parade cut short because of adverse weather, and an address on War Bonds and Stamps by Frank B. Pauly, deputy administrator of the Ohio War Savings committee.

The parade was delayed until almost 9 o'clock because of the length of the banquet session. Three bands, Walnut, Williamsport and Circleville high, participated, with 4-H club members joining in the procession.

After the parade a crowd of several hundred gathered in Memorial Hall to hear Mr. Pauly, who was introduced by Judge Meeker Terwilliger.

The speaker urged all boys and girls to participate in the "full extent of their abilities" in an effort to raise money for war by "borrowing" from the public. He stressed the point that no one who buys War Bonds is making a sacrifice, but is merely making a good, sound investment in his own future.

FLYNN DENIES GIRL CHARGES; FREED ON BOND

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23—Preliminary hearing of Film Actor Errol Flynn on combined charges of criminally assaulting two young girls today was set for November 2 in Los Angeles municipal court.

Arraigned yesterday on a complaint accusing him of attacking Peggy La Rue Satterle during a yacht cruise two years ago, when the Hollywood showgirl was 15 years old, Flynn pleaded not guilty.

A week ago the actor entered a similar plea when he was arraigned on a charge of attacking 17-year-old Betty Hansen.

Municipal Judge Byron J. Walters dismissed the complaint against Flynn involving the Hansen girl and ordered the two charges combined.

Flynn, who protested that he was the "victim of persecution," posted $1,000 bail and gained his release.

"I am confident," the actor said, "that I will be fully exonerated. In the meantime, I ask my friends to withhold judgment until the issue has been decided in the courts. I know that I will receive a fair and impartial trial and thus I am heartened and feel sure that justice will prevail."

The district attorney's office announced that both Miss Satterle and Miss Hansen will be held in protective custody until their court appearance.

PLATINUM BRICK REPLACES GOLD IN NEW SWINDLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 23 — Now it's "platinum" instead of the time-honored goldbrick that up-to-date Chicago con men are using to lure their victims.

Mrs. Bessie White, owner of a grocery store, reported to police today that she was negotiating for sale of the store with a stranger when another stranger entered and the two soon engaged in a voluble discussion of the great bargain one had in the form of some platinum.

Mrs. White became more and more interested and eventually was persuaded to put up $1,400 as a down payment on the costly platinum. One of the men handed her a box and they departed. She opened the box to inspect the treasure. It contained ordinary wire.

NAZIS MURDER 15 IN HOLLAND FOR "SABOTAGE"

LONDON, Oct. 23 — Nazi military authorities in Holland have shot another 15 Dutch hostages.

Announcement of the executions was made by Storm Troop General Rauter, Reich commissar general for public safety in Holland, in the Nazi newspaper Deutsche Zeitung in Den Niederlanden.

WAKE OFFICERS JAILED BY JAPS

Fourteen Marine Leaders Alive In Internment Camp At Shanghai

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 23 — All of the Marine Corps officers who directed the gallant defense of tiny Wake island, American Pacific outpost which succumbed to superior numbers of enemy forces December 23, are in a Japanese internment camp in Shanghai, it was disclosed today.

The news that the 14 officers of the First United States Marine battalion are alive in Shanghai was revealed in a letter received from Major Bryghte D. Godbold, of Auburn, Ala. The letter was sent to Major Godbold's fiancée and made public by Brig. Gen. Harry K. Pickett, commanding general of Marines in the 14th Naval district.

In the letter Major Godbold listed the names of the Wake island Marine officers and one Navy medical officer, Lieut. G. Mason Khan, of Galveston, Tex. The list included all the officers, exclusive of air force officers, who participated in the battle of Wake island from December 8 until its fall on December 23.

Excerpts from Major Godbold's letter as released by Gen. Pickett said:

"I hope you received the news of my safe arrival at Shanghai prior to this letter. Over a month ago I made a recorded message for you and mother and I understand it was broadcast by short-wave.

"I can't understand how I came out alive. I certainly am lucky. "All of the first defense battalion officers who were on Wake are safe.

"Shortly after our surrender at Wake I felt badly about the island but after listening to the accounts of all the other officers on the island I know everything possible was done by us to save it.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear or a four passenger mattress out of a pullman berth.

Uncle Walter's advice to foolish persons contemplating travel is neatly wrapped in one word "don't."

We talked today with a man who stood up in a train from Chicago to Dayton, Ohio.

He said he expects to do better next week—He is traveling from Dayton, Ohio to Los Angeles.

His arches have flattened out while standing still in train aisles. He has callouses on his pedals and spots before his eyes which take the form of empty seats.

Once he tried sitting down in one of the spots and found it was already occupied by four other travelers.

Apparently every adult citizen of the United States either is going some place or coming home from same.

We are leaving someplace for some other place tonight and our ticket calls for standing room on one leg.

If we put the other foot down we will have to buy another ticket.

Thought for the day: Keep a stiff upper leg if you plan to travel.

SUPREME WAR COUNCIL URGED AT WASHINGTON

Evidence Grows That Russia, China Seek More Voice In Mapping Strategy

MONOPOLY IS RESENTED

Too Much Tendency For U. S. And Britain To Make All Decisions, Is Belief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 — Establishment of a supreme United Nations war council to plan to major strategy of the war against the Axis is being urged strongly today in certain Allied diplomatic circles in Washington.

There is growing evidence that some of the Allies, including Russia, China and the Netherlands, feel they are not being accorded a sufficiently important role in the planning and direction of unified grand strategy.

The Soviet and Chinese governments particularly are understood to feel that there is too much of a tendency on the part of the United States and Great Britain to make the formulation of strategy an Anglo-Saxon affair.

Allies Resentful

Although a Pacific war council exists in Washington and London, and military or naval representatives of all the United Nations participate from time to time in the joint staff talks, some of the Allies regard this procedure as chiefly a medium through which the United States and Britain explain decisions which they have already made.

Russia, China, the Netherlands, and to some extent the refugee governments of Greece and Yugoslavia (Continued on Page Three)

ISLAND BATTLE DRAWS NEARER

Japs Expected To Launch Drive On Guadalcanal Within Three weeks

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 23 — Past performances of the Japanese in attempts to regain control of the American-held Henderson airdrome on Guadalcanal island, coupled with communiques concerning recent new landings by Jap forces, indicate today the probability that the biggest land battle to date will be fought on the island within three weeks.

The attack in force to attempt to break through the defenses established by United States Marine corps and army units probably will be made by more than 16,000 Jap troops, according to information now at hand.

This is a logical step in view of the past efforts of the Japs to seize the Guadalcanal airdrome.

Japs Stopped Twice

This first attempt to regain their lost positions was made in an attack by 1,100 Nipponese troops on the Tenaru river sector and failed. Again, on September 13, the Japs made a futile try with 3,500 men to storm Lunga Ridge.

But now a much more formidable attempt with a considerably larger force is expected to be launched. The method probably will follow in a large degree that used in the previous unsuccessful assaults, although the enemy may try to effect additional landings from the sea simultaneously with the unleashing of blows from land.

FOREST FIRE ON COAST BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 23 — The forest fire in the Santa Monica mountains which blackened thousands of acres and destroyed property estimated at more than $300,000 finally was brought under control early today.

Officials said that the blaze had been checked along all fronts and, barring flying sparks from isolated fires now under control, hundreds of fire fighters who waged a three-day battle against one of southern California's most destructive forest fires would be allowed to leave the area at dawn.

Families living in populated districts in the path of the fire were evacuated when it appeared for a time that the flames were out of hand. The fire missed a popular resort by only 300 yards.

WOMAN CARRIES MAIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—The first woman postwoman made her appearance in New York City today. She is Mrs. Mabel L. Potter. She began work as a special-delivery messenger. Postmaster Frank J. Quale, Jr., said the scarcity of man-power had made it necessary to give women a trial at delivering the mails.

MRS. ROOSEVELT WELCOMED BY KING AND QUEEN

LONDON, Oct. 23—The world's most travelled lady—Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt—set foot on British soil for the first time since the war began today and received immediately the highest accolade in the Kingdom.

King George and Queen Elizabeth were on hand to greet the President's smiling wife in person as she stepped from her train at Paddington station after flying the Atlantic.

It was probably the first time in history that the sovereigns of Britain had extended a personal welcome to any arriving woman visitor except a reigning queen.

The time and place of Mrs. Roosevelt's arrival had been kept secret. But a fair-sized crowd was on hand regardless, having been attracted by the stream of official cars proceeding to the station in the early afternoon hours.

EIGHT RAIDERS OF TOKYO HELD, JAPANESE CLAIM

LONDON, Oct. 23 — Japanese military spokesmen today increased to eight the number of U. S. air force men they claimed were taken prisoner after the raid on Tokyo last Spring, according to a Japanese broadcast heard by Reuters' (British) news agency. Yesterday the Japanese named four American airmen of the Tokyo expedition as prisoners.

Names of the American prisoners have been given to the Red Cross representative in Yokohama, the Tokyo report stated. Announcement that the additional men are held, Tokyo said was made to contradict the statement by U. S. officials that all planes participating in the Tokyo raid, except one forced down in Siberia, had returned safely to their bases.

(Secretary of War Stimson said yesterday that "several" of the American B-25 bombers may have been forced down in China by bad weather on the return flight and that it was possible that some of the crews may have landed on Japanese-controlled territory and fallen into the hands of the enemy.)

The Japanese spokesman was quoted as saying that any American fliers forced down on Russian territory will be interned. This action, he added, was not taken because of any Japanese request but followed the usual practice under international law.

COLLEGE DRAFT MAY BE NEXT

Stimson Asks Inquiry Into Facilities For Training Technical Experts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Secretary of War Stimson has ordered a complete investigation into the possibility of "drafting" colleges and universities for the special training of technical experts to handle intricate equipment, War department officials revealed today.

Scientists working with the armed forces have told the department that such instruction is necessary because their secret weapons are too complicated to be handled by men trained in the technical branches of the armed services.

It was pointed out that the educational institutions, rapidly losing their students to the draft, have highly-trained faculties already long experienced and perfectly adapted to train "scientists" for the Army and Navy.

The schools could be used to train all branches of the armed forces as the highly-involved secret weapons necessitate a "unified" command of learning, it was said.

Highly technical courses could be taught in cooperation with the Army and Navy, saving a great deal of time between production of the weapons and the manning of them.

The scientists have found this plan most urgent, since, they said, (Continued on Page Three)

ROBS FOR CASH TO WED BLONDE; JAILED INSTEAD

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—A fashion-plate bandit, who admitted he had escaped from Pontiac, Ill., prison was in jail today following robbery of offices of two small loan companies.

A native of Chicago where police said he has a record of four holdups, the 26-year-old nattily-dressed prisoner gave his name as Edward Morgan, adding that he was also known to the underworld as Eddy James.

He told police he staged the holdups to obtain funds so that he might marry a blonde he met at the race-track recently.

PLENTY OF TEA

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 — Tea drinkers were assured today of an adequate supply for 1943. Under terms of an agreement between the British and United States governments a maximum of 65,000,000 pounds of tea will be available for this country.

Reds Continue Fighting Huns To Standstill—Solomons Battle Still In Lull

By International News Service

Great Britain's might was thrown into the world struggle on a huge scale today as staunch and dogged Soviet forces fought the enemy to a standstill in southern Russia and American air power held the Japanese in check in the Solomons.

A heavy force of RAF bombers swept across Europe during the night to blast the north industrial area of Italy. The air ministry announced named Genoa as the objective, but a Rome communique said the British planes had also bombed Turin en route to the historic port.

Fires of "notable dimensions" were reported in Genoa and "great damage" was done to civilian installations in the city, according to the Rome report. Fires started in Turin were brought under control quickly, the Rome communique stated.

While the Italians claimed to have shot down two planes, the British announcement said all its bombers returned safely.

It was the first raid on Genoa since April 12, and the seventh attack on the ancient port which has served as a starting point for axis convoys to Africa.

British Fleet Active

The British censor curiously passed a dispatch revealing that a strong British naval force was operating in the Indian ocean off the coast of Africa. Three battleships, an aircraft carrier and presumably the normal escort of cruisers and destroyers were in the formidable task force, according to the Evening News.

The London dispatch gave no hint of the destination of the British warships which included the 31,100-ton Warspite, the Royal Sovereign and the Resolution, 29,150-ton sisterships, and the 23,000-ton aircraft carrier Illustrious.

Military observers doubted that the censor would have passed the dispatch if the task force was still in the area mentioned, for the admiralty is notoriously close-mouthed. (Continued on Page Three)

SENATOR URGES SCRAPPING OF 40 HOUR WEEK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 — Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel (D) Tex., today proposed an amendment to the 18-19 year old draft bill which would scrap the 40 hour week in war work and ban overtime pay for the duration.

The explosive issue developed as the senate resumed debate on the draft measure and Democratic Leader Barkley voiced the hope that the bill will be passed today.

The O'Daniel amendment would provide that until the end of the war "no provision of federal or state law which limits or restricts hours of employment shall be applicable with respect to employees of any contractors who are engaged in the performance of work directly or indirectly necessary for the fulfillment of any contracts between such contractor and the United States."

The bill specifically directs employers producing goods for commerce to pay the same rate per hour regardless of the hours worked by employees.

ISLAND BATTLE DRAWS NEARER

Japs Expected To Launch Drive On Guadalcanal Within Three weeks

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 23 — Past performances of the Japanese in attempts to regain control of the American-held Henderson airbase on Guadalcanal island, coupled with communications concerning recent new landings by Jap forces, indicate today the probability that the biggest land battle to date will be fought on the island within three weeks.

The attack in force to attempt to break through the defenses established by United States Marine corps and army units probably will be made by more than 16,000 Jap troops, according to information now at hand.

This is a logical step in view of the past efforts of the Japs to seize the Guadalcanal airbase.

Japs Stopped Twice

This first attempt to regain their lost positions was made in an attack by 1,100 Nipponese troops on the Tenaru river sector and failed. Again, on September 13, the Japs made a futile try with 3,500 men to storm Lunga Ridge.

But now a much more formidable attempt with a considerably larger force is expected to be launched. The method probably will follow in a large degree that used in the previous unsuccessful assaults, although the enemy may try to effect additional landings from the sea simultaneously with the unleashing of blows from land.

MRS. ROOSEVELT WELCOMED BY KING AND QUEEN

LONDON, Oct. 23 — The world's most travelled lady—Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt—set foot on British soil for the first time since the war began today and received immediately the highest accolade in the Kingdom.

King George and Queen Elizabeth were on hand to greet the President's smiling wife in person as she stepped from her train at Paddington station after flying the Atlantic.

It was probably the first time in history that the sovereigns of Britain had extended a personal welcome to an arriving woman visitor except a reigning queen.

The time and place of Mrs. Roosevelt's arrival had been kept secret. But a fair-sized crowd was on hand regardless, having been attracted by the stream of official cars proceeding to the station in the early afternoon hours.

EIGHT RAIDERS OF TOKYO HELD, JAPANESE CLAIM

LONDON, Oct. 23 — Japanese military spokesmen today increased to eight the number of U. S. air force men they claimed were taken prisoner after the raid on Tokyo last Spring, according to a Japanese broadcast heard by Reuters' (British) news agency. Yesterday the Japanese named four American airmen of the Tokyo expedition as prisoners.

Names of the American prisoners have been given to the Red Cross representative in Yokohama, the Tokyo report stated. Announcement that the additional men are held, Tokyo said was made to contradict the statement by U. S. officials that all planes participating in the Tokyo raid, except one forced down in Siberia, had returned safely to their bases.

(Secretary of War Stimson said yesterday that "several" of the American B-25 bombers may have been forced down in China by bad weather on the return flight and that it was possible that some of the crews may have landed on Japanese-controlled territory and fallen into the hands of the enemy.)

The Japanese spokesman was quoted as saying that any American fliers forced down on Russian territory will be interned. This action, he added, was not taken because of any Japanese request but followed the usual practice under international law.

ROBS FOR CASH TO WED BLONDE; JAILED INSTEAD

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 — A fashion-plate bandit, who admitted he had escaped from Pontiac, Ill., prison was in jail today following robbery of offices of two small loan companies.

A native of Chicago where police said he has a record of four holdups, the 26-year-old nattily-dressed prisoner gave his name as Edward Morgan, adding that he was also known to the underworld as Eddy James.

He told police he staged the holdups to obtain funds so that he might marry a blonde he met at the race-track recently.

PLENTY OF TEA

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 — Tea drinkers were assured today of an adequate supply for 1943. Under terms of an agreement between the British and United States governments a maximum of 65,000,000 pounds of tea will be available for this country.

COLLEGE DRAFT MAY BE NEXT

Stimson Asks Inquiry Into Facilities For Training Technical Experts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 — Secretary of War Stimson has ordered a complete investigation into the possibility of "drafting" colleges and universities for the special training of technical experts to handle intricate equipment, War department officials revealed today.

Scientists working with the armed forces have told the department that such instruction is necessary because their secret weapons are too complicated to be handled by men trained in the technical branches of the armed services.

It was pointed out that the educational institutions, rapidly losing their students to the draft, have highly-trained faculties already long experienced and perfectly adapted to train "scientists" for the Army and Navy.

The schools could be used to train all branches of the armed forces as the highly-involved secret weapons necessitate a "unified" command of learning, it was said.

Highly technical courses could be taught in cooperation with the Army and Navy, saving a great deal of time between production of the weapons and the manning of them.

The scientists have found this plan most urgent, since they said, (Continued on Page Three)

SENATOR URGES SCRAPPING OF 40 HOUR WEEK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 — Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel (D) Tex., today proposed an amendment to the 18-19 year old draft bill which would scrap the 40 hour week in war work and ban overtime pay for the duration.

The explosive issue developed as the senate resumed debate on the draft measure and Democratic Leader Barkley voiced the hope that the bill will be passed today.

The O'Daniel amendment would provide that until the end of the war "no provision of federal or state law which limits or restricts hours of employment shall be applicable with respect to employees of any contractors who are engaged in the performance of work directly or indirectly necessary for the fulfillment of any contracts between such contractor and the United States."

The bill specifically directs employers producing goods for commerce to pay the same rate per hour regardless of the hours worked by employees.

DUTCH PATRIOTS SINK HUN AMMUNITION SHIP

LONDON, Oct. 23 — Netherlands patriots were reported today to have sunk a German steamer loaded with ammunition in the Rhine river near Arnhem, Holland.

The Netherlands news agency said the report came from the Soviet information bureau in Moscow.

ROME REPORTS GREAT DAMAGE DONE IN RAID

"Notable Dimension" Fires Rage At Port Used By Axis Convoys

TURIN ALSO FEELS STING

Reds Continue Fighting Hung To Standstill—Solomons Battle Still In Lull

By International News Service

Great Britain's might was thrown into the world struggle on a huge scale today as staunch and dogged Soviet forces fought the enemy to a standstill in southern Russia and American air power held the Japanese in check in the Solomons.

A heavy force of RAF bombers swept across Europe during the night to blast the north industrial area of Italy. The air ministry announcement named Genoa as the objective, but a Rome communique said the British planes had also bombed Turin en route to the historic port.

Fires of "notable dimensions" were reported in Genoa and "great damage" was done to civilian installations in the city, according to the Rome report. Fires started in Turin were brought under control quickly, the Rome communique stated.

While the Italians claimed to have shot down two planes, the British announcement said all its bombers returned safely.

It was the first raid on Genoa since April 12, and the seventh attack on the ancient port which has served as a starting point for axis convoys to Africa.

British Fleet Active

The British censor curiously passed a dispatch revealing that a strong British naval force was operating in the Indian ocean off the coast of Africa. Three battleships, an aircraft carrier and presumably the normal escort of cruisers and destroyers were in the formidable task force, according to the Evening News.

The London dispatch gave no hint of the destination of the British warships which included the 31,100-ton Warspite, the Royal Sovereign and the Resolution, 29,150-ton sisterships, and the 23,000-ton aircraft carrier Illustrious.

Military observers doubted that the censor would have passed the dispatch if the task force was still in the area mentioned, for the admiralty is notoriously close-mouthed.

DIVIDED LANE HIGHWAY TO BE AFTER WAR JOB

Modern Type Road Slated
For Construction From City To Columbus

PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Straightening Of Bridge Over
Big Walnut Included In Engineering Program

Divided lane traffic, safest of all types of highways where traffic is heavy, will be constructed between Circleville and Columbus on Route 23, the project being one of the first on the state highway department's post-war activities. Hal G. Sours, directors of the state highway department, disclosed Friday that the Route 23 job is ready to start, just as soon as the axis is slapped down.

Plans have been completed for the big program, engineers having spent much time in the last six months surveying the roadway. It is understood that the new highway calls for straightening of the bridge over Big Walnut creek just north of the Pickaway-Franklin county line. This structure would eliminate a dangerous situation, many collisions having happened in the bridge which is located at an angle across the stream.

Numerous other projects are included in the post-war program, among the listed work being a bypass on Route 23 on the east side of Columbus, intercepting Routes 33, 40, 16, 62 and 3; improvement of Routes 3 and 62 from Grove City to Columbus.

REPAIR GARAGE TRANSFER FROM CITY COMPLETE

Transfer of the Fifth Service Command's central repair garage to the West Goodale street armory, Columbus, was completed Friday when a convoy of trucks moved through Circleville bearing equipment from the garage which has been operated here. The government has been renting the Goeller broom factory building, Clinton street, since early in the Spring, but is removing to Columbus in a centralization program. Fifth Service Command officials stationed at Fort Hayes, Columbus, have indicated that the government will assign a motor repair school to Circleville to use the Goeller building and the old CCC barracks on East Mound street. The repair school would be for men already in the U. S. Army who would be assigned here for special training and then returned to their units.

Brother Shot Her

WITH Jean Lyngvar, age eight, above, near death in a Pittsburgh, Pa., hospital, police sought her brother, William, age 15, believed to have fled into a wooded area, taking along his brother, Konrad, 13, as a possible hostage. William shot Jean with an old 12-gauge shotgun with which, police were told, he had cowed his family for weeks. Seven months ago William was released after spending two years in a reformatory for delinquency and petty thievery.

Ed Flynn's Ambitions Stirs Nation's Politicos

By Drew Pearson
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—State department officials are almost having fainting fits over word that Ed Flynn, former boss of the Bronx, now chairman of the Democratic committee, has his eyes glued on the U. S. ambassadorship to Mexico.

The debonair Flynn expects to resign from the Democratic Committee shortly after the November elections, and wants an ambassadorial post within commuting distance of the U. S. A.

This would mean replacement of the sitting Ambassador, George Messersmith, who, although not particularly popular around the State department, is doing a good war job in Mexico. Messersmith once held the tough jobs of consul general in Germany and American Minister in Austria, glares over his spectacles, talks turkey, mixes tact with vinegar, and generally gets things done.

He now has a war staff of U. S. diplomats in Mexico 200 strong, who, even when making the rounds of night clubs to 3 a. m., get to work at 9 a. m.—or incur the wrath of Messersmith.

Because Mexico is so important, State department officials are hoping they can deflect Boss Flynn to some other country. Since he wants to be within commuting distance, there is Cuba, which is accustomed to calamity, and where Spruille Braden, since he became an ambassador, has forgotten that he was just a common millionaire.

Also there is Brazil, where the people understand politics, and where nervous Ambassador Jefferson Caffery has bitten his own ankle so frequently that even Ed Flynn might be welcome.

Note:—An anonymous letter-writing campaign has been started to the State department because Ambassador Messersmith plays bridge with King Carol of Rumania and Madame Uepescu.

STRIKES AND TRANSPORTS
It hasn't been announced, but Undersecretary of War Patterson has ordered a survey of seamen's and longshoremen's working conditions on merchant ships which carry vital war supplies overseas.

Douglas Brown, industrial relations expert of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is conducting the survey. Inside reason for it is the serious conflict between the Army and the War Shipping Administration over handling of ships for the transport of troops and supplies abroad. As a result of this conflict some ships are manned by green crews, and there is a general state of dissatisfaction on the part of maritime labor.

Friction began when the Army Transport Service began taking over ships from the War Shipping Administration. Now the friction has become so sharp that Admiral Emory Land, head of War Shipping, has written a strong letter to the War Department, saying he will release no more ships for transfer to the Army until working conditions for seamen are improved.

Army Transport Service regards maritime labor in the same class as soldiers—they should obey orders, with no thought of overtime pay or peacetime conditions of comfort. But the seamen have a different idea, and walk out—to be replaced by green crews.

The seamen also resent the fact that Army Transport has for its executive officer their former foe, John Franklin, now a colonel, formerly head of United States Lines, and a man who has a consistent record of opposing the demands of maritime labor.

COAL DUMPED ON SHORE

The conflict came to a head at a meeting held in the office of Ed McGrady, labor adviser to the Undersecretary of War. Stories were told at that meeting which, though discounted by War Transport Service, were still tough enough to be disturbing.

One story, told by Harry Lundberg, head of the Seafarer's International (AFL), dealt with the wanderings of the S. S. Chirikoff, which was sent from Seattle to Alaska with a load of coal. But the Alaskan port was found to be well supplied with coal, so the ship returned only to be sent to another Alaskan port, which was also well supplied. The same thing happened a third time, and the crew in disgust dumped the coal on shore.

This story was confirmed by J. B. Bryan of the Pacific Ship Owners Association, who added another story of his own.

A disagreement occurred between a ship's master and an Army officer over the proper way to load some big artillery bound for Alaska. Though the officer won the argument, the master declined to sign the papers and sailed without doing so. On reaching Alaska, he had to rig up a special boom and tackle to get the heavy guns out of the hold. After unloading one, the second fell from the tackle, broke the boom, and almost went through the bottom of the boat.

The captain weighed anchor and sailed back to San Francisco for repairs. Finally, a period of 45 days was consumed in delivering the guns, compared with a minimum of four days for the Alaska run.

UNION HOURS

On the other hand, Army and Navy officials accuse seamen of malingering even in zones of war. In a foreign port, a destroyer approached a docked merchant vessel and called out, "Throw us a line." But the merchant crew, having done their eight hours, was ashore, and there was no one to throw a line.

In open harbors, subject to enemy bombing, Army and Navy officers want to unload transport vessels in a hurry, regardless of the eight-hour day. But merchant seamen quit on the stroke of the clock, they say.

Chief difficulty is that the old antagonisms between ship operators and seamen have been carried over into the government operations. One former ship owner, for example, is now stationed in Australia, representing Army Transport Service. Named T. G. Plant, he earned the nickname of "Tear Gas" Plant, from Pacific Coast seamen.

"SKID ROW BUMS"

In some cases when a ship comes back after an Army run, there is a 100 percent turnover in the crew. These one-trippers are called by old-timers the "skid row bums"—men who want to get experience at sea, or want to dodge the draft (Selective Service will not take seamen). They sign on for one run, then come to the unions or the War Shipping Administration for regular berths under better conditions.

The problem is one of the toughest facing the armed forces in establishing any second front.

One former ship owner, for example, is now stationed in Australia, representing Army Transport Service. Named T. G. Plant, he earned the nickname of "Tear Gas" Plant, from Pacific Coast seamen.

"SKID ROW BUMS"

In some cases when a ship comes back after an Army run, there is a 100 percent turnover in the crew. These one-trippers are called by old-timers the "skid row bums"—men who want to get experience at sea, or want to dodge the draft (Selective Service will not take seamen). They sign on for one run, then come to the unions or the War Shipping Administration for regular berths under better conditions.

The problem is one of the toughest facing the armed forces in establishing any second front.

Influential Senators Back Proposal Advanced By Idaho Solon

(Continued from Page One) proposal did so only because they thought it would delay an important military measure," he said. "The issue is not dead. It will only grow bigger. There would have been less disturbance about the proposal had the Senate faced the issue. The more it is postponed the bigger it will become."

Some who denounced the Lee amendment voiced regret over action of the Senate in avoiding a showdown until after the November elections. Sen. La Follette (P) Wis., supported the motion to send it to committee, but only under protest.

"Referring the bill to the committee is a vote of lack of confidence in our military commanders," he said. "We are trusting the Army and Navy with the lives of the young men of the country. Are we not ready to entrust them with their morals?"

The Lee amendment was assailed as a move to force wartime prohibition on the country and defended as a measure to protect the 'teen age youths who are to be drafted.

Soldier Vote Asked

Sen. Lucas (D) Ill., suggested that a referendum be taken among the soldiers to see how they feel about wartime prohibition. He charged that the Lee proposal would bring back gangsterism and all the other evils of prohibition.

Sen. Smathers (D) N. J., exclaimed that "I'd rather turn the country over to Hitler than the anti-saloon league."

Sen. Norris vigorously defended the proposal to dry up army camps and surrounding territory. "I don't see why we should allow a lot of saloons to be set up around these military camps," he said. "Many of these young soldiers come from the country and from small towns. They are thinking of their mothers. They are lonesome. We should not subject them to temptation."

Amendments to be disposed of included the Nye amendment placing youths of 18 and 19 in a reserve status until they are 20, but making them available for training, for schooling and for manpower purposes.

Sen. Tydings (D) Md., pressed an amendment to defer agricultural labor from the draft until replacements are obtained, while Sen. Wiley (R) Wis., urged an amendment requesting that states permit soldiers under 21 to vote.

ROTARY HEARS TOM ARMSTRONG DISCUSS WAR

Tom Armstrong, Circleville high school faculty member, appeared before the Rotary club Thursday to deliver an interesting review of a talk made recently in Columbus by Captain Leland P. Lovette, public relations director of the Navy department. Captain Lovette is an uncle of Mrs. Armstrong.

The speaker expressed confidence in the United Nations' ultimate victory in the war with the Axis, but only after a hard and bitter struggle. He declared that the United States has been trying to do a two-ocean job with a one-ocean navy.

LAVAL PLACED HIGH ON RUSS CRIMINAL LIST

LONDON, Oct. 23—Pierre Laval's name was placed high on the list of "war criminals" in Moscow dispatches today quoting Russian authorities. The Vichy chief of government was given a place just below Rudolf Hess who reputedly made his flight to the British Isles on a mission to buy peace with England for an attack on Russia.

"Laval must be brought to trial with all the severity of criminal law," the Moscow dispatch declared.

REX HECK DIES AFTER TEN YEARS OF ILLNESS

Rex Heck of Williamsport died Thursday at 6:45 p. m. in White Cross hospital, Columbus. He had been an invalid for 10 years. He was born January 11, 1897, in the western part of Indiana and was the son of Chester and Lula Gaskins Heck.

Mr. Heck is survived by his mother, Mrs. Floyd Hughes of Williamsport. He has no other relatives.

Funeral services will be Saturday at 1 p. m. at the Hill funeral home, Williamsport. The Rev. R. S. Meyer will officiate. Burial will be in Springlawn cemetery.

The universities would be under the military command, and men would be inducted into this "scholarship corps" of the Army and Navy, as part of the regular forces.

War department officials said that under the plan, as fast as new inventions are turned out, men could be turned out to handle them.

Laboratories of the colleges and universities would also be placed under military control to encourage individual theses pertaining to the practical adaptation of their instruction to the battlefield.

NAZIS PLAN TO GET TOUGH WITH FRENCH LABOR

VICHY, Oct. 23—Nazi occupational authorities have decided to "get tough" with the French workers who do not offer themselves for forced labor in the Reich. If eligible workers do not present themselves at places designated for enrollment force will be used by the Nazi army of occupation, an announcement stated.

(French workers have gone on strike in a number of areas in protest against the Nazi impressment orders, according to reports to London and Berne. As a result of resistance of the workers to the German enforced labor program, it was reported that Germany had agreed to extend the time limit to November 30, Pierre Laval, Vichy chief of government, was reported today to be in Paris in conferences with Nazi officials preparatory to a trip to Berlin.)

SUPREME WAR COUNCIL URGED AT WASHINGTON

Evidence Grows That Russia, China Seek More Voice In Mapping Strategy

(Continued from Page One) slavia, all believe there should be a supreme Allied War Council at which political as well as military problems relating to major strategy could be decided on jointly.

These Allies feel such a method of procedure not only would ensure a greater degree of harmonious unity among the United Nations, but would lead to a single strategic plan of action.

Soviet View Aired

The Soviets, for example, feel that the misunderstanding which has developed over the question of opening a second front in Europe this year might have been avoided if there was closer coordination in the planning of Allied strategy.

As it is, the lack of a clearer understanding on this question has led the Soviets to question the good faith of the United States and Britain in respect to what Moscow professes to believe was a definite promise to establish a second front in Europe during 1942. The Russians feel that the British government, particularly, has let them down.

Chiang Feels Slighted

In China, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is known to feel that he personally has been almost completely ignored in the important conferences on strategy that have brought together the leading statesmen of some of the other United Nations.

China generally is disappointed at the amount of aid it has received from the United States. Its leading representatives likewise take the view that they have not been consulted sufficiently in the framing of major policy.

American officials are fully aware of this attitude on the part of some of the leading members of the United Nations, and there is considerable concern about it. At the same time, however, it is felt that the governments of all the United Nations now have ample opportunity to express their views to one another. In some American quarters, the view prevails that a strategy council composed of representatives of all the Allied nations might merely lead to argument and confusion.

WALTER HUSTON, WIDELY KNOWN FARMER, DIES

Walter E. Huston, 73, widely known Scioto township farmer, died in Berger hospital at 5:10 p. m. Thursday of complications. He was admitted to the hospital shortly before noon Thursday.

Mr. Huston lived south of Robtown. Survivors include a son, Charles, of the home, and two daughters, Mrs. Enos Fausnaugh of Columbus and Miss Elizabeth, at home.

Funeral will be Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the Robtown United Brethren church, the Rev. O. W. Smith of Ashville officiating. Burial will be in Darbyville cemetery by the A. J. Hott company, Commercial Point.

EDDIE BLICKLE, FORMER BUCKEYE COACH, KILLED

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 23—Lieutenant Edward Blickle, coach of the Iowa Seahawk junior football team and former Ohio State university assistant football coach, was killed in an auto crash south of Cedar Rapids last night. Blickle left Ohio State during the summer to enter Navy service.

He was a former all-Ohio athlete at Ohio Wesleyan university and had coached at Huntington, W. Va., high school before going to Ohio State.

Blickle had many acquaintances in Circleville, having served here several times as a basketball referee during Circleville Athletic club tournaments.

BIRTH OF SON

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins, Laureville Route 1, are parents of a daughter born Wednesday in Berger hospital instead of a son as mentioned previously.

ROME REPORTS GREAT DAMAGE DONE IN RAID

Solomons In Lull

The battle in the Solomons apparently is in a lull. The latest Navy department communique covered action of last Tuesday when a light Japanese ground attack was launched against the American positions on Guadalcanal. The action, described as "a feeler," was easily repulsed.

Apparently the Japanese are not going to risk any important naval forces in the area until they can knock out the American air force based on Henderson field.

Weather Aids Russ

With nasty weather as an ally, the Russians were taking the initiative on the Caucasus-Volga front. All German assaults were beaten off and on all fronts the Soviet forces improved their positions.

The Russians advanced in Stalingrad, in the sector northwest of the city, and in the Black sea area southeast of Novorossisk. On the Mozdok front guarding the approach to the Grozny oilfields, the Germans drove a wedge into the Russian positions, but their shock troops were pinched off and annihilated.

The Tokyo radio today broadcast the claim that at least eight American airmen who took part in the Tokyo raid last Spring were war prisoners. Yesterday they named four prisoners, and Secretary of War Stimson admitted that the Tokyo claim could be true.

He said "several" of the American B-25 bombers were forced down in China and that some may have landed in territory controlled by the Japanese.

POLICE CLASS INSTRUCTED IN BOMB DEFENSE

Forty Pickaway county auxiliary police officers, appointed under Civilian Defense, received training in bomb defense Thursday evening under supervision of Robert E. Wolf, acting fire chief. The auxiliary unit which will operate under Sheriff Charles Radcliff's office has now received training in fire and gas protection and police work in preparation for service. Nearly all members of the unit must still take first aid courses.

by the Japs has been to land small groups of troops night after night 20 to 30 miles east or west of the American positions at the airport. With large forces then accumulated, these are usually followed by a landing force from three or four fast troop-laden destroyers with an escort of one or two cruisers which slip in under cover of darkness.

There is a possibility that the Japanese' next attempt may bring heavy forces from the sea in an effort to launch a pincer land and sea attack. This is looked to as a possibility especially since the two earlier attempts were predominantly land attacks and the only sea support was gunfire from naval vessels off shore.

SUPREME WAR COUNCIL URGED AT WASHINGTON

slavia, all believe there should be a supreme Allied War Council at which political as well as military problems relating to major strategy could be decided jointly.

These Allies feel such a method of procedure not only would ensure a greater degree of harmonious unity among the United Nations, but would lead to a single strategic plan of action.

Soviet View Aired

The Soviets, for example, feel that the misunderstanding which has developed over the question of opening a second front in Europe this year might have been avoided if there was closer coordination in the planning of Allied strategy.

As it is, the lack of a clearer understanding on this question has led the Soviets to question the good faith of the United States and Britain in respect to what Moscow professes to believe was a definite promise to establish a second front in Europe during 1942. The Russians feel that the British government, particularly, has let them down.

Chiang Feels Slighted

In China, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is known to feel that he personally has been almost completely ignored in the important conferences on strategy that have brought together the leading statesmen of some of the other United Nations.

China generally is disappointed at the amount of aid it has received from the United States. Its leading representatives likewise take the view that they have not been consulted sufficiently in the framing of major policy.

American officials are fully aware of this attitude on the part of some of the leading members of the United Nations, and there is considerable concern about it. At the same time, however, it is felt that the governments of all the United Nations now have ample opportunity to express their views to one another. In some American quarters, the view prevails that a strategy council composed of representatives of all the Allied nations might merely lead to argument and confusion.

WALTER HUSTON, WIDELY KNOWN FARMER, DIES

Walter E. Huston, 73, widely known Scioto township farmer, died in Berger hospital at 5:10 p. m. Thursday of complications. He was admitted to the hospital shortly before noon Thursday.

Mr. Huston lived south of Robtown. Survivors include a son, Charles, of the home, and two daughters, Mrs. Enos Fausnaugh of Columbus and Miss Elizabeth, at home.

Funeral will be Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the Robtown United Brethren church, the Rev. O. W. Smith of Ashville officiating. Burial will be in Darbyville cemetery by the A. J. Hott company, Commercial Point.

EDDIE BLICKLE, FORMER BUCKEYE COACH, KILLED

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 23—Lieutenant Edward Blicke, coach of the Iowa Seahawk junior football team and former Ohio State university assistant football coach, was killed in an auto crash south of Cedar Rapids last night. Blicke left Ohio State during the summer to enter Navy service.

He was a former all-Ohio athlete at Ohio Wesleyan university and had coached at Huntington, W. Va., high school before going to Ohio State.

Blicke had many acquaintances in Circleville, having served several times as a basketball referee during Circleville Athletic club tournaments.

BIRTH OF SON

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins, Laurelville Route 1, are parents of a daughter born Wednesday in Berger hospital instead of a son as mentioned previously.

STERN HAS WHEELCH

Bill Stern, NBC's top sportscaster, will broadcast this Saturday night's Sports Newsreel from WBAL in Baltimore, Maryland. His guest will be Lieutenant Commander John Wheelchel, Navy coach.

That afternoon Stern will broadcast the Navy-Georgia Tech football game from Annapolis, Maryland.

BRIAN DONLEVY STARS

Brian Donlevy will recreate his "Wake Island" film role in Cecil B. DeMille's Radio Theatre adaptation of the stirring screen drama Monday October 26 at 9 p. m. over CBS. He will be supported by an all-star cast, including Robert Preston.

ANDRE KOSTELANETZ

Andre Kostelanetz salutes another conductor when he plays Xavier Cugat's "Nightingale" over CBS Sunday, October 25, at 4:30 p. m. Kostelanetz will also offer "Tales From the Vienna Woods" by Johann Strauss and "Vocalise" by Rachmaninoff. Singing guests with Kostelanetz will be Helen Jepson, soprano, and Bob Han-non, tenor. Albert Spalding, violinist, is master of ceremonies.

DINAH SHORE

Dinah Shore, Blue network warbler heard on Friday nights, has been selected as "the canary of the year" by the American Color Breeders Association, an organization devoted to improvement of the little yellow birds that chirp so cheerfully. Award of the title will be made on her "In Person: Dinah Shore" program tonight at 8:15 on the Blue chain.

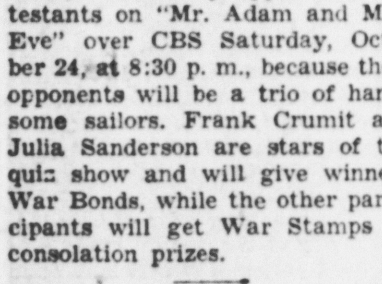

CHORINES AND SAILORS

Chorus girls from a Broadway show will think they are in a revival of the past musical, "Hit the Deck," when they appear as contestants on "Mr. Adam and Mrs. Eve" over CBS Saturday, October 24, at 8:30 p. m., because their opponents will be a trio of handsome sailors. Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson are stars of the quiz show and will give winners War Bonds, while the other participants will get War Stamps as consolation prizes.

EDDIE CANTOR

Billie Burke, the fast-talking comedienne of the vague manner, will be Eddie Cantor's guest on "Time to Smile," which will be the first program to air from the newly opened Hollywood Canteen over NBC Wednesday, October 21, at 9 p. m. The Mad Russian will be in attendance because he wants to find out how the canteen operates so that he may open a string of them along the Russian front. Other regulars are Dinah Shore, Hattie McDaniel, Harry von Zell and the Cookie Fairchild orchestra.

Solomons In Lull

The battle in the Solomons apparently is in a lull. The latest Navy department communique covered action of last Tuesday when a light Japanese ground attack was launched against the American positions on Guadalcanal. The action, described as "a feeler," was easily repulsed.

Apparently the Japanese are not going to risk any important naval forces in the area until they can knock out the American air force based on Henderson field.

Weather Aids Russ

With nasty weather as an ally, the Russians were taking the initiative on the Caucasus-Volga front. All German assaults were beaten off and on all fronts the Soviet forces improved their positions.

The Russians advanced in Stalingrad, in the sector northwest of the city, and in the Black sea area southeast of Novorossisk. On the Mordok front guarding the approach to the Grozny oilfields, the Germans drove a wedge into the Russian positions, but their shock troops were pinched off and annihilated.

The Tokyo radio today broadcast the claim that at least eight American airmen who took part in the Tokyo raid last Spring were war prisoners. Yesterday they named four prisoners, and Secretary of War Stimson admitted that the Tokyo claim could be true.

He said "several" of the American B-25 bombers were forced down in China and that some may have landed in territory controlled by the Japanese.

POLICE CLASS INSTRUCTED IN BOMB DEFENSE

Forty Pickaway county auxiliary police officers, appointed under Civilian Defense, received training in bomb defense Thursday evening under supervision of Robert E. Wolf, acting fire chief. The auxiliary unit which will operate under Sheriff Charles Radcliff's office has now received training in fire and gas protection and police work in preparation for service. Nearly all members of the unit must still take first aid courses.

OPEN LETTERS

TO COMMUNITY FOLK

ALL: Boys and girls of Pickaway county's 4-H clubs and vocational agriculture classes will be holding the center of the Circleville stage tonight and Saturday when they exhibit their prize stock, including cattle, swine and sheep. They will be after major premium awards in addition to honors which go with owning grand champions. Then, too, they will be seeking high prices for their animals. But, regardless of all this, these youngsters will be showing their friends and neighbors and every one in the community what they have been doing to help Uncle Sam's Food for Freedom program. Many thousands of pounds of food will be auctioned off at the sale scheduled this evening at 8 o'clock, and many of the most prominent buyers in central Ohio will be present to bid on the livestock offered there. The parade and program at the courthouse, despite bad weather, attracted a fair-sized crowd Thursday evening. Garage buildings on East Franklin street will be open tonight and Saturday and every one is being invited to visit the rooms which are filled by livestock and by other exhibits prepared by youngsters of the different clubs. Congratulations go to every person who has had a role in planning the 4-H club-vocational agriculture event, because this outlet provides rural boys and girls the opportunity to show every one what kind of a role they are playing in Uncle Sam's war effort. Be certain to visit the exhibits before they are taken away.

CIRCUITEER.

TO HALLOWEENERS

BOYS, GIRLS: This is one year in which you should become patriotic in your celebrations of the Halloween season. Please do not do any damage to any property. This is an appeal voiced by about every one in the community, because property damaged can oftentimes not be replaced for any amount of money. 'Be patriotic in your Halloweening' should become a national expression this year, because more than ever public officials are urging that all of you have a good time on Halloween night. But do not damage any property. Halloween comes October 30, and that is the only date on which celebrating will be permitted, and then authorities are asking that 'soaping' with paraffin or with other things which cannot be removed from glass should be taboo. Get out your tie-tacs, ring your doorbells, throw your corn, and do other things that go with the holiday but do not cause any damage. Persons who insist on Halloweening before the October 30 date will find themselves ordered into court, and their violations will not result in their being given reprimands and told to behave from now on. Any damage done must be paid for by persons doing it. Special police in street clothes and regular policemen will be covering streets in all parts of the city, so my advice would be to wait for October 30 to come around and then do only things permitted under safety and property preservation practices.

CIRCUITEER.

TO BOYS 18, 19

FELLOWS: There is less fooling now among you high school and college boys and your young friends in the shops. You may not be really men yet, in your own minds or the minds of your parents, but you are growing up very fast. Every day lately may be adding a month to your real stature and strength. You know that to you is coming a great and terrible responsibility, and at the same time a very great honor. It is finally on you, not on your fathers or uncles, or the army already trained, or even on the government itself, that the responsibility of winning this war will fall. It is you, the chosen youths of America, who will take up the burden, carry the ball at last to the goal line and push it over. You will be the final saviors of your country and its liberties. You are the ultimate guarantee of the future of our civilization. You gallant lads do not take yourselves so seriously as such remarks imply. You will laugh and take the job in stride. But you are not ignorant of what is going on in this crisis of civilization, and you know in your hearts that these words are true.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CHEST SUPPORTERS

ALL: Four more townships were named this week by Frank Fischer, Community Chest campaign chairman, as having gone over the top in their campaign for funds. Townships joining Deercreek, which was first to pass its quota, are Jackson, Madison, Walnut and Perry. All are to be congratulated for gathering enough cash and pledges to reach the assigned amount. It is a matter of civic pride to be able to say: "My township supported the Community Chest." I hope that other townships will soon have reached their quotas.

CIRCUITEER.

TO COUNTY SCHOOL PUPILS

YOUNGSTERS: I was very sorry the other day to learn that the annual basketball schedule, looked forward to by so many of you, had been cancelled because of transportation difficulties. This does not mean, however, that no basketball will be played, because many schools are booking games closer to home. Checking a little deeper I learned that other outstanding extra-curricular festivities had been called off, including the music festival, oratorical contest and other things. You boys and girls are playing a big role in Uncle Sam's war effort, because you are putting more time on your studies; better preparing yourselves for your jobs of the future whatever they may be.

CIRCUITEER.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

WASHINGTON.—Wendell Willkie gets the credit for Uncle Sam's abandonment of America's extraterritorial rights in China. Presumably he is entitled to it. While he was in Chungking recently, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is said to have mentioned to him that the Chinese would consider it a friendly act, Wendell passed the hint on to Washington and the state department for (extra-) territoriality, where it exists, is a diplomatic, treaty-arranged institution) promptly acquiesced.

It unquestionably pleased those of the Chinese who are sufficiently informed to know anything about the matter, and was a very commendable policy to be adopted. However, most Occidentally-published accounts of the transaction go on an altogether wrong assumption.

The popular theory evidently is that the strong and more or less modern western nations forced the extraterritorial arrangement upon the back numbered eastern ones because the former refused to permit their visiting citizens to be subjected to the east's barbarous systems of so-called law and justice.

The fact is that in many, if not all instances, it was the native government which declined to be bothered by a lot of resident foreigners' squabbles and miscellaneous litigations.

China's old time Peking imperial regime took just this position.

Shanghai a Toehold
Back in the days when Yankees, among other Occidentals, were trying to establish themselves as traders on the eastern Asiatic coast, they appealed repeatedly to the Peking authorities for what subsequently was described as a "treaty port" here and there, from which to operate into the interior.

Finally the Peking folk agreed to let 'em have Shanghai, as a toehold.

The foreigners subsequently transformed it into a big city, but it was an insignificant little burg then, illustrative of the low rating placed by Peking upon "foreign devils."

An Independent City
The U. S. and most of the European bunch presently semi-federated their concessions, as the "foreign city." It was as independent of China as a hog on ice. France, indeed, remained segregated, maintaining what was known (and called) as the "French city."

The rest of 'em, though, combined on a kind of a municipal basis.

Yet that was an issue of policing mainly. If an American, you went on a Yankee rampage, the international police punched you, but your own Yankee court tried you.

Furthermore, there was a regular U. S. court (as big as any sub-supreme tribunal) to submit your larger scale appeals to.

All that's past.
In the first place, Chiang Kai-shek isn't one of those venerables who believe in complete submission to outsiders.

DIET AND HEALTH

Theory That Vitamins Check Graying of Hair Not Upheld

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FROM THE number of letters I receive on the subject I gather that there are at least two schools of thought on the subject of gray hair. There are those who hate the idea of having the hair turn and will do anything to prevent it. And there are those who are rather proud of it and think their appearance is improved and are willing to let things alone.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The group that do not want gray hair have been much encouraged by the reports which have been coming out during the last few years about the discovery of a vitamin which prevents graying of hair. Unfortunately for them this report was premature. It was the report on a laboratory experiment which dealt with rats. I have seen the animals and can testify that there is no doubt that removal of the vitamin from the diet results in a wide streak of gray down their backs. But the applicability of the experiment to humans did not work out.

Difficulties in Daily Life
Those who try to translate laboratory experiments in vitamins from the laboratory to daily life of human beings do not realize the tremendous difficulties of constructing a diet with a certain vitamin out of it.

Nearly all the common foods contain one or more vitamins. In order to remove the hair-graying factor from a diet you have to leave off most of the vegetables, fruits, milk, egg, butter, nuts, bread, meats, to name just a few. What the experimenter really does is to take foods and process them so the vitamin is removed chemically. In other words, the people who write me asking what vitamin to take to prevent gray hair have been eating it daily all their lives.

The changing color of hair is a mystery of the deepest kind. One theory proposed is that hair color is due to the deposit of a chemical called melanin in the hair. The only way the body has of excreting melanin is to excrete it in the hair. When we get older we no longer need melanin in our body economy and no longer manufacture it, so the hair turns white.

Another theory recently proposed by an anatomist is that he noticed that the skulls of those who had prematurely gray hair were lacking in the usual blood vessels that ran to the scalp. But this also is quite theoretical.

There are a few rare cases recorded of hair restored to its natural color. Dr. James Isdell, of Dublin, in 1884 reported the case of his father who, at the age of 62, had the color of his hair completely restored. A man whose history was reported in 1912 had his hair suddenly turn gray (almost overnight) and as suddenly return to normal color. A fireman, aged 65, had his gray hair restored to normal color when he was exposed to extreme cold one night.

There is nothing inherently hard to understand in these cases if the melanin theory is correct, because the utilization of melanin might go and come in tidal waves.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
H. B. Leamington, Ontario:—Should a person with stomach ulcer eat raw fruits and raw tomatoes? Is milk bad for one with bladder trouble? What do you recommend for bladder trouble?

Answer: Raw fruit and tomatoes usually aggravate the symptoms of ulcer of the stomach. Milk does no harm in bladder trouble. There are several hundred kinds of bladder trouble. The first thing to do is to find out what kind you've got.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

BRUCE MARTIN was not surprised the day following the explosion in the Nordex plant to be summoned to the F. B. I. office. He went in with his arrogant, slouching walk, his smile sneering, the old bitter flash in his black eyes.

"I hear you had an explosion last night," he greeted the keen-eyed young man behind the desk.

The man's smile was perfunctory, his eyes searched Bruce's face as he answered. "You'd be more help, Martin, if you'd drop your antagonism."

Bruce laughed and sank into a chair beside the desk. "Oh, so this is just a friendly call, is it? You don't want to know where I was last night around 8 o'clock?"

"Why do you resent being asked a few questions?"

"I resent being suspected of everything that goes on around here!" retorted Bruce. "I resent being the brunt of a lot of dirty cracks around the plant just because you like to meddle."

The F. B. I. chief said briefly, "if you're being talked about around the plant, it's your own doing, Martin. You're the only one who's been grousing about your interviews here."

"Well, why shouldn't I?" Bruce roared angrily.

"Go ahead. It's all right with me. But I'm just saying, don't blame me for the reputation you're building for yourself." He drummed alert fingers on the desk for a minute, and when he raised his eyes to the sullen young man, they were amused.

"Well," he asked quietly, "What were you doing last night at about 8 o'clock?"

Bruce exploded. "Look here, Danver, it's none of your—"

"You were with Miss Vaughn?" John Danver watched the young test pilot settle back in his chair with an angry snort. He sighed gently. "I wish, Martin, you hadn't renewed your acquaintance with Miss Vaughn so recently."

Bruce helped himself to a cigarette from the desk and struck a match with a vicious flick of his wrist.

"All right, all right," he glared at the other man through a barrage of smoke. "Lead on, MacDuff. But start making cracks about Miss Vaughn and see where it gets you."

"Maybe," murmured Danver slowly, "you'd rather let talk about the little red-haired girl you know here in the plant?"

"The same thing goes for her," said Bruce Martin. "Just make one crack, that's all I ask."

Danver straightened in his chair.

"What did you do from the time you left the plant that day at three-thirty?"

Martin scowled, but gave his report, hour by hour, his voice bitter, flat, convincing. Danver rose and went with him to the door when the interview was over. He held out his hand and Martin shook it reluctantly.

"I'm sorry you're taking it this way," Danver said quietly. "You've put yourself in a spot where you're in for surveillance, Martin, but you're not the only one we question. And we don't consider you're guilty of anything until we've proved it. You're doing a big job, Martin. You're a valuable man. And I hope this routine is purely precautionary. I wish you could see it that way."

"I see it as a nuisance," Bruce Martin said shortly as he turned and went out toward the hangars. He stopped in at the boss' office. "Just been in to see Danver," he growled. "Told him I killed Cock Robin."

The boss gave him a worried smile. "Checking out now?"

"What about that testing tonight? Afraid to trust me with it?" Bruce sneered.

"Not ready. Still being checked." Bruce went on to his locker to get his hat and coat, slammed the door savagely. As he turned his car's long nose toward the city, he reflected bitterly he was a sap to stay here and take it. But he knew he wouldn't leave—not under fire.

The girl at his apartment switchboard made eyes at him as he stopped for his mail.

"You had a call just a few minutes ago, Mr. Martin—from Hollywood."

"Thanks."

He went up to his bachelor quarters and shuffled through the few ads and bills that had come for him.

"Bah!" He threw them at the wastebasket and picked up the phone.

ToINETTE Vaughn was en route from the studio to her apartment. "I'll call back in half an hour or so," he told the maid, and hung up.

He was both relieved and disappointed she was not there. He went through the dusky, empty-smelling place and turned on the shower light. A hot shower always picked him up. He thought of the bills again. They looked like old times. Now, with income tax—he'd have to begin to budget. He grinned wryly. He'd almost forgotten how to spend money since he'd broken up with ToINETTE. But she was reminding him.

He was taking off his shirt by the window when he happened to look down at the street below. A man was sauntering along the street. He paused beside Bruce's car and regarded it with interest. He glanced around, then stepped onto the running board and looked inside.

Bruce burned. Was he being trailed now? He went back to the living room after the man moved on. He lit a cigaret and dropped into a deep leather chair. He had never been so low in his life. He sat smoking as dusk deepened into darkness, trying to wear out the mood of bitter desolation that had settled over him.

The small clock on the mantel chimed. He knew it was time to call ToINETTE. But he didn't move. Around the manish room, her pictures smiled at him from table, radio and mantel. He viewed them with blank hostility. She, like every other thing in his life at the moment, was a nuisance.

If he could have gone up tonight on that testing job! It seemed to him his main trouble was that he was grounded too much. When he had his own plane—his own time, it had been different. But now! He wasn't the type to stand around like a clod and wait for permission to fly!

He smiled sardonically, remembering why he'd signed on at Nordex. He'd craved up in one of their fool, slapped-together jobs, and that would be swell. Well, he'd been wrong. Good planes, careful checking, plus an instinctive flying sense on his part had cheated him of this escape. One of the finest test pilots in the country, they called him. He knew he was. But it gave him no pleasure. Flying was a mania with him, an antidote for a disease of bitterness that was destroying him. That he did it better than most men was incidental. That he was an important cog in the machinery of war production meant little to him. Only one thing was important to him. And he despised himself for that.

The phone rang. He sat still, listening to it. It would be ToINETTE. Her husky, warm accents blurring over the wire. "Darling, is that you?" Well, let her wait. Why should he talk to her? Why should he drive into Hollywood tonight? No, he'd stay where he was! But he was already crossing the dark room to the empty phone table, the receiver was in his hand.

"Hello," he said gruffly. At the first husky accent his blood raced.

"Darling—is that you?"

"No. It's Yamashita."

Her laughter broke warm and soft. "Who's Yamashita?"

"You wouldn't know. You're not too bright." He was short, impatient with her, but she didn't mind this.

She answered, "I'm not at all bright, darling. If I were, I wouldn't be waiting for you. When can you be here?"

"Half an hour," said Bruce. She laughed softly and he slammed up the receiver.

Today's Horoscope

Today's birthday children should cultivate their talents for music. They are good planners, although not always practical in execution. They are generous, loving, and seldom depressed. They have many friends, are devoted to their mates and unselfish in their love. Gain through secret activities, property, mines and agencies are portended for them in the coming 12 months. They should, however, exercise the utmost discretion in love, domestic, military and legal matters. They should also be on guard against accidents during this time. Born on this date a child will be liable to accidents, through fire and machinery. Trouble through friends, lovers, law and extravagance is also threatened. Aside from these things, the fortunes will be fairly good.

TO COMMUNITY FOLK

ALL Boys and girls of Pickaway county's 4-H clubs and vocational agriculture classes will be holding the center of the Circleville stage tonight and Saturday when they exhibit their prize stock, including cattle, swine and sheep. They will be after major premium awards in addition to honors which go with owning grand champions. Then, too, they will be seeking high prizes for their animals. But, regardless of all this, these youngsters will be showing their friends and neighbors and every one in the community what they have been doing to help Uncle Sam's Food for Freedom program. Many thousands of pounds of food will be auctioned off at the sale scheduled this evening at 8 o'clock, and many of the most prominent buyers in central Ohio will be present to bid on the livestock offered there. The parade and program at the courthouse, despite bad weather, attracted a fair-sized crowd Thursday evening. Garage buildings on East Franklin street will be open tonight and Saturday and every one is being invited to visit the rooms which are filled by livestock and by other exhibits prepared by youngsters of the different clubs. Congratulations go to every person who has had a role in planning the 4-H club-vocational agriculture event, because this outlet provides rural boys and girls the opportunity to show every one what kind of a role they are playing in Uncle Sam's war effort. Be certain to visit the exhibits before they are taken away.

TO HALLOWEENERS

BOYS, GIRLS: This is one year in which you should become patriotic in your celebrations of the Halloween season. Please do not do any damage to any property. This is an appeal voiced by about every one in the community, because property damaged can often be not replaced for any amount of money. Be patriotic in your Halloweening should become a national expression this year, because more than ever public officials are urging that all of you have a good time on Halloween night. But do not damage any property. Halloween comes October 30, and that is the only date on which celebrating will be permitted, and then authorities are asking that 'soaping' with paraffin or with other things which cannot be removed from glass should be taboo. WORLD AT A GLANCE

WASHINGTON—Wendell Willkie gets the credit for Uncle Sam's abandonment of America's extraterritorial rights in China. Presumably he is entitled to it. While he was in Chungking recently, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is said to have mentioned to him that the Chinese would consider it a friendly act. Wendell passed the hint on to Washington and the state department for (extra-) territoriality, where it exists, is a diplomatic, treaty-arranged institution) promptly acquiesced. It unquestionably pleased those of the Chinese who are sufficiently informed to know anything about the matter, and was a very commendable policy to be adopted. However, most Occidentally-published accounts of the transaction go on an altogether wrong assumption. The popular theory evidently is that the strong and more or less modern western nations forced the extraterritorial arrangement upon the back numbered eastern ones because the former refused to permit their visiting citizens to be subjected to the east's barbarous systems of so-called law and justice. The fact is that in many, if not all instances, it was the native government which declined to be pestered by a lot of resident foreigners' squabbles and miscellaneous litigations. China's olden time Peking imperial regime took just this position. Shanghai a foehold. Back in the days when Yankees, among other Occidentals, were trying to establish themselves as traders on the eastern Asiatic coast, they appealed repeatedly to the Peking authorities for what subsequently was described as a "treaty port" here and there, from which to operate into the interior. Finally the Peking folk agreed to let 'em have Shanghai as a foehold. The foreigners subsequently transformed it into a big city, but it was an insignificant little burg then, illustrative of the low rating placed by Peking upon "foreign devils."

Said the Peking aggregation, "We'll accord a little territorial 'concession' each (about the size of a ward in an American municipality) on the bank of the River Yangtze. You can ship in through and out from the 'concession.' But, mind you, we won't be bothered with policing that patch or adjudicating any quarrels you may, between yourselves, get into. All that stuff will be YOUR worry." So that's how extraterritoriality got started in China. Ditto Turkey and some more places. But to return to China. Shanghai was the system's focal tacs, ring your doorbells, throw your corn, and do other things that go with the holiday but do not cause any damage. Persons who insist on Halloweening before the October 30 date will find themselves ordered into court, and their violations will not result in their being given reprimands and told to behave from now on. Any damage done must be paid for by persons doing it. Special police in street clothes and regular policemen will be covering streets in all parts of the city, so my advice would be to wait for October 30 to come around and then do only things permitted under safety and property preservation practices.

You know that to you is coming a great and terrible responsibility, and at the same time a very great honor. It is finally on you, not on your fathers or uncles, or the army already trained, or even on the government itself, that the responsibility of winning this war will fall. It is you, the chosen youths of America, who will take up the burden, carry the ball at last to the goal line and push it over. You will be the final saviors of your country and its liberties. You are the ultimate guarantee of the future of our civilization. You gallant lads do not take yourselves so seriously as such remarks imply. You will laugh and take the job in stride. Theory That Vitamins Check Graying of Hair Not Upheld

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FROM THE number of letters I receive on the subject I gather that there are at least two schools of thought on the subject of gray hair. There are those who have the idea of having the hair turn and will do anything to prevent it. And there are those who are rather proud of it and think their appearance is improved and are willing to let things alone. The group that do not want gray hair have been much encouraged by the reports which have been coming out during the last few years about the discovery of a vitamin which prevents graying of hair. Unfortunately for them this report was premature. It was the report on a laboratory experiment which dealt with rats. I have seen the animals and can testify that there is no doubt that removal of the vitamin from the diet results in a wide streak of gray down their backs. But the applicability of the experiment to humans did not work out.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Difficulties in Daily Life

Those who try to translate laboratory experiments in vitamins from the laboratory to daily life of human beings do not realize the tremendous difficulties of constructing a diet with a certain vitamin out of it. Nearly all the common foods contain one or more vitamins. In order to remove the hair-graying factor from a diet you have to leave out most of the vegetables, fruits, milk, egg, butter, nuts, bread, meats, to name just a few. What the experimenter really does is to take foods and process them so the vitamin is removed chemically. In other words, the people who write me asking what vitamin to take to prevent gray hair have been eating it daily all their lives.

The changing color of hair is a mystery of the deepest kind. One theory proposed is that hair color is due to the deposit of a chemical called melanin in the hair. The only way the body has of excreting melanin is to excrete it in the hair. When we get older we no longer need melanin in our body economy and no longer manufacture it, so the hair turns white. Another theory recently proposed by an anatomist is that he noticed that the skulls of those who had prematurely gray hair were lacking in the usual blood vessels that ran to the scalp. But this also is quite theoretical.

There are a few rare cases recorded of hair restored to its natural color. Dr. James Isdell, of Dublin, in 1884 reported the case of his father who, at the age of 62, had the color of his hair completely restored. A man whose history was reported in 1912 had his hair suddenly turn gray (almost overnight) and as suddenly return to normal color. A fireman, aged 65, had his gray hair restored to normal color when he was exposed to extreme cold one night.

There is nothing inherently hard to understand in these cases if the melanin theory is correct, because the utilization of melanin might go and come in tidal waves.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

BRUCE MARTIN was not surprised the day following the explosion in the Nordex plant to be summoned to the F. B. I. office. He went in with his arrogant, slouching walk, his smile sneering, the old bitter flash in his black eyes.

"I hear you had an explosion last night," he greeted the keen-eyed young man behind the desk.

The man's smile was perfumery, his eyes searched Bruce's face as he answered. "You'd be more help, Martin, if you'd drop your antagonism."

Bruce laughed and sank into a chair beside the desk. "Oh, so this is just a friendly call, is it? You don't want to know where I was last night around 8 o'clock?"

"Why do you resent being asked a few questions?"

"I resent being suspected of everything that goes on around here!" retorted Bruce. "I resent being the brunt of a lot of dirty cracks around the plant just because you like to meddle."

The F. B. I. chief said briefly, "If you're being talked about around the plant, it's your own doing, Martin. You're the only one who's been grousing about your interviews here."

"Well, why shouldn't I?" Bruce roared angrily.

"Go ahead. It's all right with me. But I'm just saying, don't blame me for the reputation you're building for yourself." He drummed alert fingers on the desk for a minute, and when he raised his eyes to the sullen young man, they were amused.

"Well," he asked quietly. "What were you doing last night at about 8 o'clock?"

Bruce exploded. "Look here, Danver, it's none of your—"

"You were with Miss Vaughn?" John Danver watched the young test pilot settle back in his chair with an angry snort. He sighed gently. "I wish, Martin, you hadn't renewed your acquaintance with Miss Vaughn so recently."

Bruce helped himself to a cigarette from the desk and struck a match with a vicious flick of his wrist. "All right, all right," he glared at the other man through a barrage of smoke, "lead on, MacDuff. But start making cracks about Miss Vaughn and see where it gets you."

"Maybe," murmured Danver slowly, "you'd rather tell about the little red-haired girl you know here in the plant."

"The same thing goes for her," said Bruce Martin. "Just make one crack, that's all I ask."

Danver straightened in his chair.

"What did you do from the time you left the plant that day at three-thirty?"

Martin scowled, but gave his report, hour by hour, his voice bitter, flat, convincing. Danver rose and went with him to the door when the interview was over. He held out his hand and Martin shook it reluctantly.

"I'm sorry you're taking it this way," Danver said quietly. "You've put yourself in a spot where you're in for surveillance, Martin, but you're not the only one we question. And we don't consider you're guilty of anything until we've proved it. You're doing a big job, Martin. You're a valuable man. And I hope this routine is purely precautionary. I wish you could see it that way."

"I see it as a nuisance," Bruce Martin said shortly as he turned and went out toward the hangars. He stopped in at the boss' office. "Just been in to see Danver," he growled. "Told him I killed Cock Robin."

The boss gave him a worried smile. "Checking out now?"

"What about that testing tonight? Afraid to trust me with it?" Bruce sneered.

"Not ready. Still being checked." Bruce went on to his locker to get his hat and coat, slammed the door savagely. As he turned his car's long nose toward the city, he reflected bitterly he was a sap to stay here and take it. But he knew he wouldn't leave—not under fire. The girl at his apartment switchboard made eyes at him as he stopped for his mail.

"You had a call just a few minutes ago, Mr. Martin—from Hollywood."

"Thanks."

He went up to his bachelor quarters and shuffled through the few ads and bills that had come for him.

Soldiers Entertained By Business Women

Dance Features Program For Warriors

Thirty-nine soldiers of the Lockbourne air base were entertained at a traditional Halloween party Thursday by the Business and Professional Women's club, the outstanding affair being held in the recreation center of St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Met at the door by a ghostly figure in white, the trainees were greeted with a clammy handclasp and ushered into the building where the rooms were lighted with Jack-o'-lanterns and weird Halloween lamps.

After a series of lively games in which many packages of cigarettes were given as prizes, dancing was enjoyed in the social room where excellent music was provided by a juke box. Each member of the B. and P. W. club had taken one of the younger social group of Circleville to the party providing hostesses for the entertainment of the air men.

Halloween refreshments of pumpkin pie, doughnuts, cider and coffee were served in the cafeteria where an attractive buffet table was centered with an Autumn centerpiece of fruits and vegetables flanked with tall orange candles.

Dancing, card games and ping-pong occupied the guests until they were returned to the Air Base just before midnight.

About 80 trainees, guests and club members participated in the well-planned affair.

The officers of the club, Miss Rose Good, president, Miss Frances Barnes, vice president, Mrs. G. G. Campbell, recording secretary, Mrs. Olen Postwick, treasurer, and Mrs. Harriet Hennessy, corresponding secretary, were assisted by club members as a committee of the whole in arranging the fine party.

Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. Howard Brinson and Mrs. Martha Anderson were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower Wednesday at the Brinson home, near Mt. Sterling, the party honoring Mrs. Robert Tracy (Betty Brinson), a recent bride.

Soldiers Entertained By Business Women

Dance Features Program For Warriors

Thirty-nine soldiers of the Lockbourne air base were entertained at a traditional Halloween party Thursday by the Business and Professional Women's club, the outstanding affair being held in the recreation center of St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Met at the door by a ghostly figure in white, the trainees were greeted with a clammy handclasp and ushered into the building where the rooms were lighted with Jack-o'-lanterns and weird Halloween lamps.

After a series of lively games in which many packages of cigars were given as prizes, dancing was enjoyed in the social room where excellent music was provided by a juke box. Each member of the B. and P. W. club had taken one of the younger social group of Circleville to the party providing hostesses for the entertainment of the air men.

Halloween refreshments of pumpkin pie, doughnuts, cider and coffee were served in the cafeteria where an attractive buffet table was centered with an Autumn centerpiece of fruits and vegetables flanked with tall orange candles.

Dancing, card games and ping-pong occupied the guests until they were returned to the Air Base just before midnight.

About 80 trainees, guests and club members participated in the well-planned affair.

The officers of the club, Miss Rose Good, president, Miss Frances Barnes, vice president, Mrs. G. G. Campbell, recording secretary, Mrs. Olen Bostwick, treasurer, and Mrs. Harriet Hennessy, corresponding secretary, were assisted by club members as a committee of the whole in arranging the fine party.

Bucks Picked To Win Over Northwestern 11

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—Though the frost is not yet on, or within striking distance of the pumpkin, the alibis have worn thin, the arnica is dry and fresh supplies of aspirin tablets and crying towels have been delivered to the coaches' quarters of our most famous college football teams. Therefore we're going to become downright devilish this week and predict that the favorites will finally come into their own and win a majority of the games on the week end football card.

Anyone not in his right mind has had a carnival so far this season. To date upsets have averaged about fifty-fifty with form winners in the major games and only Ohio State, Boston College, Georgia, Army, Alabama, Texas Christian, Washington U., and Wisconsin of the top flight elevens have remained unbeaten. But we believe the big clubs have gotten all the jitters out of their systems; have had a mass crying session and will be much more consistent from here in. Let's see what we can see in our crystal ball, which released from solitary this week, has weepingly promised to make amends for the rest of the season.

East: Auburn-Villanova (tonight)—this is a tough one with our vote going to Auburn by a couple of points. In another of tonight's battles, Jimmy Crowley's Number Carolina pre-flight club should have a tough game but enough stuff to take over Temple. On Saturday:

Penn.-Columbia—The classy Penn eleven has far too much stuff for the Lions.

Duquesne-Manhattan—The Duquesne are classy and too fast for the Manhattan line. Duquesne by about two touchdowns. Boston College-Wake Forest—B. C. wins this one by a touchdown.

Army-Harvard—Harvard hasn't the defense to cope with Army's pony backs. This is the best soldier team of the last six or eight years and will prove it as the season goes along. Georgia Tech-Navy—the Middles seem to be sluggish this season and Tech has been waiting a long time for a winning team. This year's 11 seems to have a lot of spirit and should win by two touchdowns. Colgate-Penn State—a good tie game. We think Penn State can win it in a close game. Duke-Pitt—another tough one. Duke seems to have come off the floor and should win.

Brown-Princeton—Mr. Margerita tells the story. If Tigers stop him they stop Brown. We don't think they can do it all afternoon. Dartmouth-Yale—an annual blood battle in which the Elms always play over their heads. They won't be able to stop the green passers, however, and Dartmouth may run up 30 points.

Notre Dame-Illinois: After what the Irish did to Bernie Bier-

INJURIES BRING WAILS FROM BUCKEYE ELEVEN

COLUMBUS, Oct. 23—The Ohio State Buckeyes, with considerable wailing over injuries, were en route today to Evanston to meet Northwestern. Tommy James will replace the injured Paul Sarringhaus at left half in a backfield that includes Capt. George Lynn at quarterback, Les Horvath at right half and Gene Fekete at fullback. Two other veterans, Bill Durtschi and Dante Lavelli, are nursing injuries too severe for action.

'CATS WORKING ON LINE; GRAHAM PASSES POTENT

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 23—Northwestern's Wildcats pondered today on how to plug up the leaks in their line, so evident in the last two defeats, and how to pave a road through the Ohio State wall which thus far has withstood all assaults. As they tapered off for the Dad's day meeting with the Buckeyes tomorrow, the Wildcats again placed their main trust in the pitching arm of Otto Graham.

GOPHERS FIGHT FUMBLE JINX IN MICHIGAN TILT

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 23—The fumble jinx which already had cost them the Seahawks and Illinois games worried the Minnesota Gophers today as they prepared for their little brown jug battle with Michigan tomorrow. The regular backfield, Quarterback Bill Garnaas, Left Half Bill Daley, Right Half Herman Frickey and Fullback Bob Kula, was expected to start.

FEWER NAILS IN BOOTS

LONDON—British troops all over the country are quietly celebrating today. They've heard some really good news. This is the announcement issued by the war office that started it all:

"Army boots are to have fewer nails because of the metal shortage. In the future military shoes will have 30, instead of the usual 36 hob-nails."

TIGERS SET FOR WILMINGTON '11'

Clean Record To Be Guarded As Hurricane Invades Local Gridiron

Stage was set Friday and almost perfect football weather prevailed as Coach Roy M. Black's Circleville high varsity gridder prepared to resume South Central Ohio league activity against Wilmington. The game starts at 8 o'clock on the Red and Black field, with fathers of the youthful athletes to be honored with places inside the field fence. Each dad will wear the number on his back that his son wears on his uniform jersey.

The Tiger team, untied and unscored on this year, is hopeful of adding Wilmington to its string of victims. However, the Tigers, while they will be fighting to keep the chalk line unsullied, will not be surprised if the boys coached by Roy McKinley do score. "We're just out to get more than they can score," one of the Tiger squad veterans declared Friday.

Coach Black has indicated that his starting lineup will likely include Bach, Shea, Heath and Smallwood in the backfield, J. Dade, Wells, Wallace, Valentine, Moore, Haley and Friedman or Mader in the line.

HUNK ANDERSON MAY TAKE OVER BEAR COACHING

CHICAGO, Oct. 23—Heartley

"Hunk" Anderson, line coach of the Chicago Bears and former head coach at Notre Dame, appeared today to be the likely choice to succeed George S. Halas, as pilot of the professional football champions.

Owner-Coach Halas, who now is awaiting marching orders from the Navy, has announced that one of his three aides, Anderson, Luke Johnson, end coach, or Paddy Driscoll, backfield coach, would succeed him when he enters the service.

Anderson, one of the greatest guards in Notre Dame history, joined the Bear staff in 1940, his ninth coaching post since he was graduated from Notre Dame in 1922. Because of his wide coaching experience, Anderson was believed to be in line for the head coach job.

Still uncertain when he would be called for duty, Halas continued with his plans for the football season. The Bears will be seeking their 15th straight victory when they meet the Philadelphia Eagles at Wrigley Field Sunday.

ARMY, NAVY GO MIGHT BE LAST TILL WAR ENDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—There was much speculation today that this year's Army-Navy football classic will be the last for the duration of the war, following the switching of the November 8 contest from Philadelphia to the U. S. Naval Academy under orders of President Roosevelt.

Indication that the famous gridiron rivalry—which started back in 1890—would be halted until after the war, was read in the White House announcement that the 1942 game would be played at the home of the Middles and only residents of Annapolis would be able to attend.

CINCINNATI U. TO FACE SINKWICH AND GEORGIA

CINCINNATI, Oct. 23—Paced by All-American Frankie Sinkwich, of Youngstown, one of the strongest University of Georgia teams in years invades Nippert Stadium tomorrow to take on the University of Cincinnati Bearcats.

It will mark the first meeting of the two grid outfits, with Georgia, undefeated in five contests, the heavy favorite to continue its quest of national collegiate football honors.

Cincinnati, incidentally, also is undefeated, having downed Louisville, Western Reserve, Centre and Ohio University.

In addition to Sinkwich, the invading Bulldogs have two other remarkable ground gainers in Charlie Trippi and "Race Hoss" Lamar Davis.

Bucks Picked To Win Over Northwestern 11

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—Though the frost is not yet on, or within striking distance of the pumpkin, the alibis have worn thin, the arnica is dry and fresh supplies of aspirin tablets and crying towels have been delivered to the coaches' quarters of our most famous college football teams. Therefore we're going to become downright devilish this week and predict that the favorites will finally come into their own and win a majority of the games on the week end football card.

Anyone not in his right mind has had a carnival so far this season. To date upsets have averaged about fifty-fifty with form winners in the major games and only Ohio State, Boston College, Georgia, Army, Alabama, Texas Christian, Washington U., and Wisconsin of the top flight eleven have remained unbeaten.

But we believe the big clubs have gotten all the jitters out of their systems; have had a mass crying session and will be much more consistent from here in. Let's see what we can see in our crystal ball, which released from solitary this week, has weepingly promised to make amends for the rest of the season.

East: Auburn-Villanova (tonight)—this is a tough one with our vote going to Auburn by a couple of points. In another of tonight's battles, Jimmy Crowley's Number Carolina pre-flight club should have a tough game but enough stuff to take over Temple.

On Saturday:
Penn—Columbia—The classy Penn eleven has far too much stuff for the Lions.

Duquesne—Manhattan—The Ducks are classy and too fast for the Manhattan line. Duquesne by about two touchdowns. Boston College-Wake Forest—B. C. wins this one by a touchdown.

Army—Harvard—Harvard hasn't the defense to cope with Army's pony backs. This is the best soldier team of the last six or eight years and will prove it as the season goes along. Georgia Tech-Navy—the Middles seem to be sluggish this season and Tech has been waiting a long time for a winning team. This year's 11 seems to have a lot of spirit and should win by two touchdowns. Colgate-Penn State—a good tie pick. We think Penn State can win it in a close game. Duke-Pitt—another tough one. Duke seems to have come off the floor and should win.

Brown-Princeton—Mr. Margarita tells the story. If Tigers don't him they stop Brown. We don't think they can do it all afternoon. Dartmouth-Yale—an annual blood battle in which the Elis always play over their heads. They won't be able to stop the green passers, however, and Dartmouth may run up 30 points.

INJURIES BRING WAILS FROM BUCKEYE ELEVEN

COLUMBUS, Oct. 23—The Ohio State Buckeyes, with considerable wailing over injuries, were en route today to Evanston to meet Northwestern. Tommy James will replace the injured Paul Sarringhaus at left half in a backfield that includes Capt. George Lynn at quarterback, Les Horvath at right half and Gene Fekete at fullback. Two other veterans, Bill Dartsch and Dante Lavelli, are nursing injuries too severe for action.

man's club last week, you'd have to be insane to pick against them. Michigan-Minnesota—The Gophers seem to have a monopoly on this one but Michigan has a great club and will probably win a tough one. Northwestern-Ohio State—So far the Buckeyes have done everything asked in great style. The Wildcats are discouraged and will have to improve a great deal to make a ball game of it. Wisconsin-Purdue—Wisconsin is consistent and has a great back in Hirsch. The Purdue club seems on the downgrade after a fairly good start. Indiana-Iowa—Indiana is a scoring team and Iowa isn't. That's the story here.

SOUTH

Alabama-Kentucky—The Crimson tide by at least two touchdowns. Tulane-North Carolina—Tulane wants revenge for what Georgia did to them last week and should get it. Miss. State-Florida—This shouldn't be a basket party for State. Florida is tough in spots and this may be the spot. We'll stick with State in a close one.

SOUTHWEST AND FAR WEST

Baylor-Texas A & M—This should be a tight game but Texas A & M is far overdue and we think they'll finally hit their best form and win it. Texas-Rice—the Longhorns woke up last week and we have a hunch they will be too tough to lick from now on. By a touchdown or two.

Oregon State—Washington State—We can't believe Oregon has gone back too far and will stick with them to knock over Washington State in a low scoring game. USC-Stanford—the Stanford game is on the improve and they should have enough tricks to beat USC in a free-scoring battle. U.C.L.A.—Santa Clara—the UCLANS seem to be the class out here and the Bronco's aren't up to last year. Washington-California—a good tie. We'll stay with Washington which is more consistent.

BUCKY HARRIS SEEKING POST IN ARMY CORPS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Stanley Raymond "Bucky" Harris, retired manager of the Washington Senators, today awaited action on his application for a commission in the Army specialist corps.

40 More Pickaway County Men Accepted for War Service

GROUP RETURNS ON FOURTEEN DAY FURLOUGH

Selectees Pass Physical Tests At Columbus, Slated For Fort Harrison

TO ENTRAIN NOVEMBER 5

List Of Accepted Men Sent To Local Draft Board And Made Public

Induction of 40 more Pickaway countians into the armed service was announced Friday by the Pickaway county Selective Service board following return of the group from Columbus where final examination was conducted. The accepted men will entrain November 5 for Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., and assignment to training camps.

The group, which represented part of the October contingent, was held over a day longer than usual for examination when the Army medical board found itself swamped Wednesday. The Pickaway unit was held overnight and given examinations Thursday.

Accepted men include:

Circleville: William H. Niles Jr., William Harry Sawyer, J. R. Adams, Arthur Raymond Adkins, Eugene Thomas Smith, Robert J. Shadley, William Joseph Ramey, Herbert Lee Thomas, Charles W. Zaenglein, Arthur S. McClain, Kermit E. Crable, William M. Jury, Carl E. Burns, Ned L. Kraft, Fred W. Wolfe, Clyde E. Valentine, Paul L. Peters.

Ashtville: William H. McManes, Clayton Bernard Walden, Floyd W. Gaines, James H. Dunn, Lewis E. Huber, James W. Ward and Harry R. (Busse) Hedges.

Derby: Harold R. Stage, Elzie F. Phillips.

Tarleton: Albert D. Drake, Floyd N. Moore.

New Holland: Woodrow Wilson Shipley, Harold E. Dundon.

Mount Sterling: Paul F. Francis.

Dayton: Denver L. Burns.

Hilliards: Virgil R. Moss.

Orient: Charles E. Mouser.

Draft board has not yet received a list from the Army board listing rejectees, so the exact number returned home because of physical disability is not yet known.

Thomas David Harmon, who has been employed at the Charleston, Ind., powder plant of the Dupont company, was accepted and left immediately for his training base, furloughed men reported. Harmon had been named acting corporal in charge of the conti gent.

The board does not yet know whether any others in the contingent left at once for Fort Benjamin Harrison and assignment for training.

If none except Harmon left the rejected list would total 42, since 82 men left for the induction center. The board was not surprised at the apparently large number of rejections since more than half of the contingent was comprised by men who had been in I-B classification until the draft law was changed eliminating that class. Some of the men had been in 4-F only a short time.

Another contingent much smaller than the Wednesday group left Circleville Friday, completing the county's quota for the month.

Colonel Chester W. Goble, state draft chief, declared Thursday that when the time comes for Selective Service to call married men living with their wives but who have no children it will make no difference in their classification whether their wives work or not.

The colonel said that, except in cases where the wife is proven by a physician's certificate to be physically incapable of working, this class of registrants would be re-

LOCAL BOYS TO ATTEND STATE DEFENSE CLASS

Circleville high school authorities have been asked to send several outstanding boy students to a "plant protection institute" for central Ohio to be conducted by Ohio State university starting Monday and continuing through Friday.

The institute will be a school for representatives of industrial police, who then will conduct the instruction for their own units, in protection of plant personnel and property during special war-time conditions.

Other cities to be represented are Columbus, Mt. Sterling, Delaware, Newark, Lancaster, Springfield and Marion. Sixty-five "students" are expected.

Inspector George Mingle of the highway patrol is in charge of the institute, which is conducted in cooperation with the Office of Civilian Defense and military authorities. Sessions will be in the Horticulture and Forestry building, room 206, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily.

The institute is one of a series of such affairs being held throughout the state. Two have been held at Kent State university and one is scheduled to open at Bowling Green State university November 9.

classified according to order number.

The statement was occasioned by complaints from many war industries that married women were quitting their jobs in the belief that such action would result in further deferment of their husbands.

"There is no logical reason for women who are working to quit their jobs, or for those who may choose to accept employment not to do so," Goble said. Thousands of wives of men now in the service are contributing immensely to the war effort in Ohio.

"In the light of revised regulations, as contained in the Service Men's Allotment Act which went into effect July 15, the fact that a wife works or does not work is no longer a determining factor in a Board's arriving at proper reclassification of a registrant who may have been classified 3-A under former regulations."

As to wives who are physically incapable of working, Colonel Goble pointed out that regulations always have stipulated that each case be considered on its individual merits. As to wives who are not working but who are capable of doing so, he pointed to a section which stated that boards, "in applying the rules, should consider reasonable sacrifices which the war effort demands of all people living in the United States."

He conceded that, under these two sections, much still remained under the discretion of the local boards.

Miss Ruth Pyle of Columbus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Pyle of near Amanda and sister of Mrs. James Arledge, Elm avenue, has been sworn into the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps. Miss Pyle, who has been employed in Columbus, is awaiting her order to report for training.

William Betts Jr., Pickaway township, is ill at his home, suffering from a heavy cold. Mr. Betts is a rural mail carrier.

The ladies of the Tarleton Lutheran church will serve a chicken supper Thursday evening, October 29. Start serving 5 o'clock. Price 50c.

Mrs. Lee Winks of near Circleville was removed from University hospital, Columbus, Wednesday night to her home. She is recovering after a major operation.

Hanley's will serve a special Turkey Dinner Sunday.

William Rickenbaugh, who lives in a small house on the canal bank, has been admitted to Berger hospital for medical treatment.

Funeral Services

Mrs. Clayton Waliser—Services will be conducted Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the residence, Saltcreek township.

James M. Hatfield—Service will be Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the late home in Five Points. The body is now at the Hatfield home where friends may call Friday evening and Saturday.

MINOR DAMAGE DONE IN TRUCK AND CAR CRASH

Minor damage was done to the body of a 1940 Dodge sedan Thursday afternoon when it and a truck collided at Court and Franklin streets. The accident happened when the truck turned off South Court street into Franklin where the Dodge was parked. The sedan was driven by Arthur Willing, 37, of Columbus, who posted $10 bond in police court because he was driving without an operator's license. Donald Foust, 21, of Lilly Chapel, was driving the truck.

REPORT AWAITED ON CASH SALE OF CITY SCRAP

Community Chest officials are awaiting a final report from the Circleville Iron and Metal company concerning the amount of scrap salvaged from the big pile of material dumped on West Franklin street two weeks ago in Circleville's big roundup.

The last load of scrap was hauled to the junk yard Thursday night by Circleville Iron and Metal company crews.

While early estimates had indicated that there might be 200 tons in the pile, salvagers believe now that 100 tons will be a closer figure. Much of the pile was comprised of materials not suitable for scrap salvage.

WITH LOCAL BOYS UNDER THE FLAG

Midshipman John Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Robinson, South Pickaway street, has been ordered to report November 4 at Norfolk, Va., for additional Navy training following completion October 30 of his work at Northwestern university. Young Robinson has been assigned to amphibian service.

Private Shirley Waidelich of Washington township has been transferred from Fort Jackson, South Carolina, to Camp Blanding, Fla. He is in the Signal Corps.

Frank S. Kinser, Circleville, a recent inductee, has been assigned from Fort Thomas, Kentucky, to Fort Belvoir, Virginia.

Friends have received word from Private Leland Dunkle that he has arrived safely in England. Dunkle, former employee of the Harden-Stevenson garage, is in the air corps repair service.

Lieutenant C. Dee Early, former manager of the Citizens' Telephone company, has a birthday next Tuesday, October 27, and friends may write him at 225 Pecan street, Elks club, San Antonio, Texas.

Raymond Meyer, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert S. Meyer of Williamsport, is home on a two-week furlough with his parents. Private Meyer was graduated Saturday from the U. S. A. A. F. School of Aeronautics, Keesler Field, Miss. He enlisted in the Air Corps in May.

Promotion of Corporal Donald L. Russell, formerly of Circleville, to the grade of sergeant, has been announced by headquarters of Oklahoma City Air Depot. Sergeant Russell is a payroll clerk with a headquarters squadron at the depot, newest establishment of the Air Service Command for the maintenance and repair of aircraft and the training of the air depot groups. Sergeant Russell is the son of Alvin B. Russell, Route 2, Circleville, Ohio. He was employed by Cussins and Feagin before

WARREN BAKER INSTALLED AS LEGION CHIEF

Warren H. Baker, a rural mail carrier, became commander of Howard Hall post, American Legion, Thursday evening at impressive installation services conducted by Gus Boop, district commander. Boop is a resident of Portsmouth.

Mr. Baker, who lives in Town street, will fill the vacancy left by induction of James Shea of Circleville in the U. S. Army. Shea is stationed in the classification department at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Other officers who assumed their duties with Mr. Baker included Elgin Merriman, first vice-commander; John Goodchild, second vice-commander; E. C. Elbert, adjutant; Mack Parrett, treasurer; James Cook, chaplain; Harry Timmons and Charles Davis, sergeants-at-arms; Bryan Custer, I. W. Kinsey, Wilbur Brinker, William Betts Jr., and John Bolender, executive committee.

Members of the post enjoyed a social evening at the Legion Club following the installation ceremony.

40 More Pickaway County Men Accepted for War Service

GROUP RETURNS ON FOURTEEN DAY FURLOUGH

Selectees Pass Physical Tests At Columbus, Slated For Fort Harrison

TO ENTRAIN NOVEMBER 5

List Of Accepted Men Sent To Local Draft Board And Made Public

Induction of 40 more Pickaway county men into the armed service was announced Friday by the Pickaway county Selective Service board following return of the group from Columbus where final examination was conducted. The accepted men will entrain November 5 for Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., and assignment to training camps.

The group, which represented part of the October contingent, was held over a day longer than usual for examination when the Army medical board found itself swamped Wednesday. The Pickaway unit was held overnight and given examinations Thursday.

Accepted men include:

Circleville: William H. Niles Jr., William Harry Sawyer, J. R. Adams, Arthur Raymond Adkins, Eugene Thomas Smith, Robert J. Shadley, William Joseph Ramey, Herbert Lee Thomas, Charles W. Zaenglein, Arthur S. McClain, Kermit E. Crable, William M. Jury, Carl E. Burns, Ned L. Kraft, Fred W. Wolfe, Clyde E. Valentine, Paul L. Peters.

Ashville: William H. McManes, Clayton Bernard Walden, Floyd W. Gaines, James H. Dummitt, Lewis E. Huber, James W. Ward and Harry R. (Busse) Hedges.

Derby: Harold R. Stage, Elzie F. Phillips.

Tarleton: Albert D. Drake, Floyd N. Moore.

New Holland: Woodrow Wilson Shipley, Harold E. Dundon.

Mount Sterling: Paul F. Francis.

Dayton: Denver L. Burns.

Hilliards: Virgil R. Moss.

Orient: Charles E. Mouser.

Draft board has not yet received a list from the Army board listing rejectees, so the exact number returned home because of physical disability is not yet known.

Thomas David Harmon, who has been employed at the Charlestown, Ind., powder plant of the Dupont company, was accepted and left immediately for his training base, furloughed men reported. Harmon had been named acting corporal in charge of the contingent.

The board does not yet know whether any others in the contingent left at once for Fort Benjamin Harrison and assignment for training.
